

THEORETICS

"THEORETICS is exactly what the Seattle hip-hop scene needs--what any scene looking to maintain an edge needs, really--at the moment: a funky fresh infusion of live instrumentation and Jurassic 5-style lyrical showmanship."

~Kevin Capp - Seattle Weekly

"Seven piece Seattle based Hip Hop outfit THEORETICS are definitely more than your basic DJ / Emcee crew, and they are definitely Hip Hop. Blending together live drums, guitar, bass, keys, and saxophone, THEORETICS create a soulful mix of Jazzy Hip Hop Anthems."

~William McManus - Seattle Show Gal

Carrying on a tradition best exemplified by "The Roots," THEORETICS is a true Hip Hop band. They build their songs from the ground up with each musician contributing from their eclectic backgrounds outside of Hip Hop.

Their self-titled debut album features thirteen original songs, including four instrumentals. The album showcases the groups' skill at creating exciting, neck-cracking material, with a sound both new and known, and a positive message delivered in an uncompromising style.

On this album, MCs Mark Hoy and Chimaroke Abuachi flaunt their trademark high standard of lyrical content and flow, and perform with a chemistry and charisma reminiscent of Hip Hop's founding fathers.

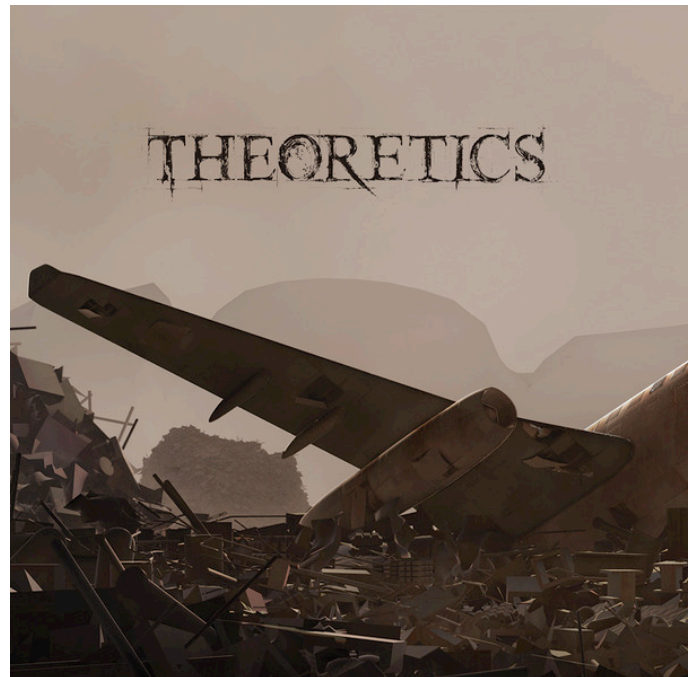

Drums for "THEORETICS" were recorded at three Seattle different studios (The Office, Avast, Nels Nelson) to collect a variety of drum sounds. All other instrumental and vocal tracks were recorded in Seattle WA by Birch Pereira and Ben Krulewitch. The album was mixed by Don Gunn (The Office), and Birch Pereira. "THEORETICS" was mastered by John McCaig (Panic Studios).

THEORETICS self-titled debut album will astonish listeners with its catalog of styles and new sounds, and artfully delivered lyrical message.
